

Bully Bill

By T. Albert
Illustrated by: maillustrations.com

Free & personalised children's books

Bully Bill

Bill is on a bullying spree. He believes that he is the strongest animal on the farm and that gives him the right to do as he pleases. But the farm animals decide to stop him in his tracks by a great tale that moves at a quick pace, keeping the reader engrossed right to the end.

Free & personalised children's books

Published by Monkey Pen Ltd

Dear Supporter,

Thank you for downloading our children's books.
Monkey Pen's Vision is to provide thousands of free children's books to young readers around the globe.

Please share our books with your friends and family to support our mission. Thank you

Please make a donation on Patreon to support
Monkey Pens Free Book Project:

Farmer Fred had just bought a new bull.
He named him Bill.

Bill was a strong and handsome bull with great horns. He was very big for his age.

Farmer Fred got Bill, the bull loaded into the trailer, and headed back home to his farm. When they arrived, Farmer Fred said, "Bill, welcome to your new home." Bill just snorted and tossed his head back to show off his impressive horns.

This was all new to Bill as he was raised in a small stall and his new home was very different. He had a lot to explore.

Bill stood on the hill and watched all the barnyard animals. He thought to himself. "I am the biggest animal on Farmer Fred's farm. No other animal has such great horns."

Bill chuckled at the chickens as he slowly walked up to them. They were so small and they didn't have horns.

As Bill approached, the chickens clucked. The lone duck, ducked, as Bill almost stepped on her.

Bill lowered his head and quickly shook it from side to side right in front of the chickens.

"I'm Bill, the bull and I'm bigger than you chubby chickens," he said in a deep voice. "And I am the boss of the barnyard."

Bill, the bull, frightened the chickens. They rapidly ran, flipped, flopped and, flew, to the safety of their cozy coupe. This made Bill, the bull, laugh loudly. He was having fun.

Bill saw some plump pigs moving in the mud and decided to play a prank.

As he approached, he said loudly, "I heard Farmer Fred say that he needed some bacon for breakfast and ham for dinner." He then laughed loudly and tossed his head around showing off his great horns.

This frightened many of the pigs and they proceeded to their pen for protection.

The biggest pig, named Pork Chop, walked up to Bill and said.

"You are a very mean bull, Bill."

Bill snorted a reply.

"Well, you have a big, flat nose,
a tornado tail and pink ears.

Also, you are dirty, and smelly"

Then Bill lowered his head, snorted
a great snort,
and shook his horns at Pork Chop.

Pork Chop was a wise old pig and knew what Bill was doing.

He wouldn't be bullied by any bull, even Bill.

Now, Bill, the bullying bull, was expecting Pork Chop to mush through the mud and proceed to the pen for protection.

But Pork Chop just stood there looking at him.

Then Pork Chop said in a soft voice.
"You are a very mean bull, Bill,"
and walked away

Then, Bill saw some sheep in the meadow. Bill began to walk across the big barnyard towards them. When he got there, he was met by the Roger Ram, the leader of the flock. "I'm Roger Ram, rejoicing at meeting my newest neighbor on Farmer Fred's farm," he said in a very polite manner.

Bill ran at Roger Ram, snorting and shaking his big horns and said, "I am Bill, the bull. I am the boss of the barnyard." In a split second, Roger Ram, rammed Bill the bullying bull, between his big horns.

Bill, the bullying bull, looked at Roger Ram and said. "All that white curly hair, might give you lots of flair, but you ram like a ewe."

Then Bill backed up, started to paw at the ground with his hefty hooves, snorted seven snorts, shook his horns, lowered his now lumpy head, and.....

Roger Ram and the others retreated from the meadow. Bill, the bullying bull, was proud of what he had done.

All the barnyard animals were afraid of Bill. He was either threatening them with his size and big horns or making fun of the way they looked.

It was not a pleasant day on Farmer Fred's farm. "I am going to call him Bully Bill," said Henrietta Hen.

"That's not nice," responded Roy Rooster. "It's being a bully yourself."

"Well, we will work on something to stop his bullying," replied Toby Turtle.

Roger Ram said, "I don't know what we can do? I rammed him and he called me a ewe."

Dorothy Duck said, "He almost stepped on me with those heavy hooves. No one is safe!"

With tears in her eyes, little Patty Piglet said, "I heard, I was going to be eaten by Farmer Fred. I'm scared."

Pork Chop said in a soft and soothing tone, "Don't worry my friends. By the evening feed by Farmer Fred, Bill, the bullying bull, will become our buddy."

Bill was having so much fun. He certainly was the boss of the barnyard.

He looked around and saw a big barn, with open doors, and he just had to let whoever lived there know that he was boss of the barnyard.

It was a bright sunny day but as Bill walked into the dark barn, he couldn't see anything. This frightened him a little.

He turned the corner around the door and ... BOOM ... he was stopped in mid stride. Bill realized that he had just walked into something really big. So big, it didn't move when he walked into it.

As Bill's eyes adjusted to the darkness in the barn, he started to see what had stopped him. He was looking at the chest of some big animal.
Bill was scared.

As he looked up, he could see the biggest bull, with the biggest horns, staring down at him. A voice like thunder filled the barn. "I finally get to meet Bill, the boss of the barnyard."

Now Bill didn't know what to do or what to say. All he could do was look up at this giant and wonder what would happen next.

There was silence in the barn for several minutes as Bill just looked up in amazement. Finally, the big bull said something.

"I am Brian Bull and have lived on Farmer Fred's farm for many, many, years. In all those years, never have the other animals asked me for help.

But today, they came to me with the story of a big bull that was bullying them and they asked me to put an end to it. I agreed!"

Bill was never, ever, so frightened. Brian could toss him across the barnyard, with little effort, and one push from his head. Brian slowly lowered his head. Bill looked down and began to shake.

Brian got closer and whispered into Bill's ear. "What do you think I should do, Bill? I promised the other animals I would put a stop to your bullying."

"Please believe me Brian. You have!" Bill said in a truly honest voice.

"I have never been so frightened in my life and I know how the other animals must have felt." Bill began to sob a little.

"I now know how it feels to be bullied and you didn't even really bully me. I have learned my lesson and I will go out and apologize to all the animals and ask them to forgive me

"You don't have to," Brian said.
"You already have."

As Bill turned around, he saw all the other animals standing in the doorway.

"Here pig-pig-pig, come on chick-chick"

The animals heard Farmer
Fred calling them for the evening feed.

Pork Chop walked over to Bill and said.
"Come on, buddy. Let's eat."

Your Story Book!

A book specially made, with you as the main hero or heroine!

Discover More >

Personalised children's gifts by www.monkeypen.com

Free & personalised children's books

Bill is on a bullying spree. He believes that he is the strongest animal on the farm and that gives him the right to do as he pleases. But the farm animals decide to stop him in his tracks by a great tale that moves at a quick pace, keeping the reader engrossed right to the end.

Please share our books with your friends and family to support our mission. Thank you

Bully Bill

Published by MonkeyPen.com

Illustrated by www.maailustrations.com

Free & personalised children's books

